Clergy annual leave location

Welcome to our July newsletter! As you will realise its slightly early in the month for you to be receiving it but this is due to working around clergy annual leave.

Its good for all of us to get a bit of time for rest and recuperation if we can. It helps us to recharge our batteries and it also helps us to take a step back and look at the world afrehs and with new eyes!

I commend a summer rest to you! I will be enjoying mine!

St.Mary's College Choir,

Durham University, at Palma

The student choir from St.Mary's College, Durham University came to sing at our Sunday eucharist on 24th June.

They sang the different liturgical parts of the service unaccompanied which was beautiful. All of the setting was written by their musical Director Mr Matt Warren (top row far right in the above photo).

The congregation joined in with gusto for the hymns! Afterwards choir members mingled with the congregation and we had cava and strawberries to celebrate.

Thank you St.Mary's Choir!

Its the Wedding Season.....!

Yours truly posing at Finca Son Berga before a wedding

The wedding blessing season is well underway for the clergy of the Mallorca Chaplaincy and here are a few pictures of some of the lovely places we have the privilege of leading services in.

As clergy of the Church of England, which has continuing warm ecumenical relationships with the Catholic Church on Mallorca, we take services in a number of Catholic churches. These are about a third of the wedding blessings we take.

The remaining two thirds are held in lovely hotels, fincas and other beautiful outdoor or indoor secular locations. Given we offer a religious service in these instances this can be seen as a gentle form of evangelism.

Here are a few photos of some of the locations that we take wedding blessings in. A few more next time!

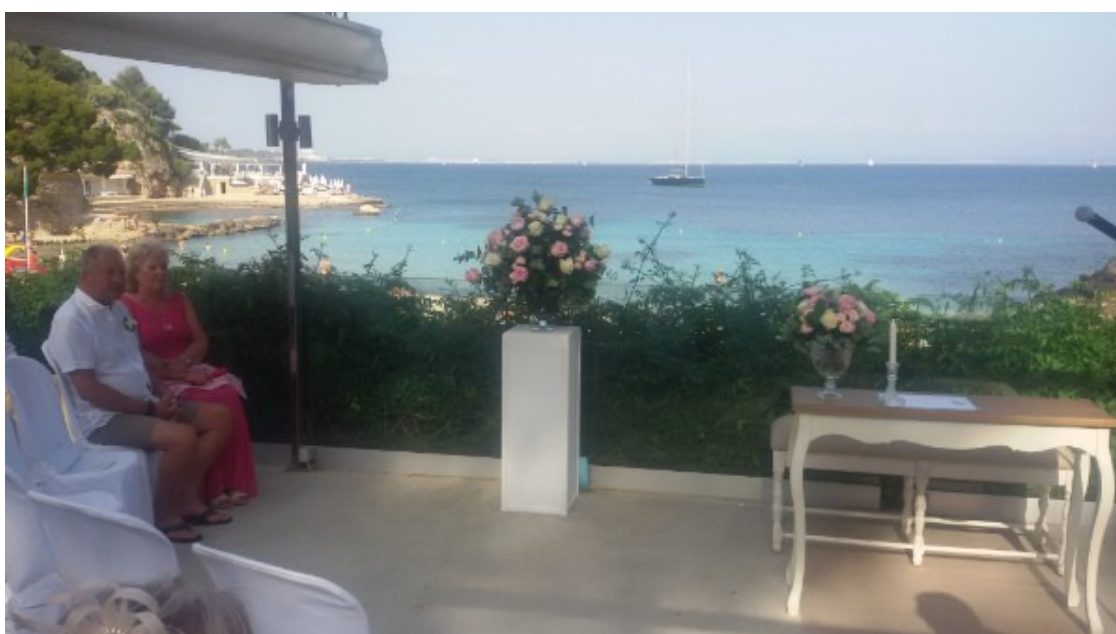

Finca Son Berga near Alaro, looking down into the congregational area

Finca Son Pont near Puigpunyent in the west of the island.

A smaller more intimate venue.

The Beach Club at Illites with two congregation members waiting for the start of the service. Chaplaincy yacht in the bay (just kidding)
